

Monday, July 14, 2008

Rite Track, Brewer Science form R&D partnership

Business Courier of Cincinnati

Rite Track Inc. said it has formed a "collaborative partnership" with Brewer Science Inc. to integrate technologies and pursue new innovations that could enhance both firms' product lines.

Under the agreement, West Chester-based Rite Track and Rolla, Mo.-based Brewer will explore ways to integrate Brewer's processing technologies into several track systems supported by Rite Track, and work jointly on new solutions for processing needs and applications support, according to a news release.

Rite Track is a supplier of customized and remanufactured track systems for the solar and semiconductor industries, among others, and related products and services. Brewer makes products like protective coatings, tools and equipment for the semiconductor and microelectronics industries.